'Truly something for everyone' at Fringe

► Up to 20,000 people expected at this year's theatre and art festival in London ► It's the sixth-largest fringe festival in Canada

The title suggests theatre and artwork not normally in the mainstream, but starting today they'll be front-and-centre in the Forest City.

Today marks the beginning of the 12th annual Fringe Festival in London. It's a celebration that brings dozens of theatre groups and artists together for theatrical and spoken word performances as well as visual, contemporary art and theatre for a 10-day extravaganza, wrapping up June 26.

"What is wonderful about a fringe festival is there is truly something for everyone," said Kathy Navackas, executive producer. London's Fringe Festival stands out because it incorporates theatre, visual and contemporary art as well as spoken-word and film performances, she said.

"Most other fringe festivals don't have much beyond the theatre."

An example is Nuit Blanche, which will see a dozen venues open their doors starting at 9 p.m. Friday and showcasing local and contemporary artwork until the wee morning hours.

She said Fringe gives many artists a chance to perform works they wouldn't normally do — and since there are thousands of people on the hunt for something new and interesting, it's a good time to expand your horizons. Money from the Fringe Festival goes back to the artists — Navackas estimates $85,000 went to artists last year, while in 2011, they're hoping to push that total past $100,000.

East Park Golf Gardens will be transformed into a battlefield next month, where the weapon of choice is water

But it's all part of the fun as Interact, the youth arm of the Rotary Club in London, which will host its second annual Water for Water: London's Greatest Water Fight on July 9.

Proceeds raised from the event will go to WaterCan, a Canadian charity supporting water sanitation projects in Africa.

It also marks the end of an exciting year for Interact

"It's our big blowout event to conclude the year, to bring the students together," said Everling. "Seeing everything come together will be really excit-

Everling said working with Interact has taught her life skills.

"I think it's a great opportunity, and you're participating in leadership roles. It's really great for high school students," she said.

Clean water

WaterCan is a Canadian charity dedicated to fighting global poverty. It helps the world's poorest people gain access to:

- ▶ Clean water.
- ▶ Basic sanitation.
- ▶ Hygiene education.

► Celina Everling, 17, left, and Rosalinda Chen, 18, take aim. The Central High School seniors say money raised at the Water for Water event will make an impact on the work WaterCan does to make water more accessible in countries stricken by poverty.

Cutting it close to the curb

► Over last 14 years, Londoners donated 900,000 pounds of food for London Cares Curbside Food Drive

MARINA BRKLJACA
LONDON@METRONEWS.CA

With less than two days to go before the London Cares Curbside Food Drive wraps up for another year, donations are down.

Jane Roy, co-director of the London Food Bank, said volume is off pace by 16 per cent.

"The total for this year so far is 31,240 pounds, said Roy. "The average over the last five years has been 37,352 pounds."

Jay Stanford, director of environmental programs for London, said some of that might have to do with people forgetting to put their food out.

"There's plenty of opportunity for people who forgot to put their donation by the blue box," said Stanford.

► Monica Stuart, 12, left, and Alyssa Beaudoin, 13, Grade 7 students from Mountsfield Public School, put hampers together at the London Food Bank yesterday.

Londoners can drop their donations off at a grocery store or Tim Hortons.

Roy said this food drive takes place at a crucial time.

"The biggest thing about this food drive is when it happens," said

Put it in drive

- Attach a ribbon or bow to the donation and place the food donation beside your blue box.
- If you miss your drop-off day you can go to one of 20 grocery stores or 49 Tim Hortons locations.
- Drive runs from June 10-18.
- Organizers hope to bring in 86,000 pounds of food through curbside food this year, which would put the city's 15-year total at more than one million pounds.

Roy. "Summer time is when companies go on vacation. There are less little food drives going on in the city during summer."

Stanford said every city has people that are less fortunate. In London, more than 3,000 families visit the London Food Bank every month.

The next save might be someone's life.

House slithering with snakes

► Infestation goes into walls
► Family gives up and flees home after 42 snakes caught in one day

The five-bedroom house sits on pastoral acreage in the rural Idaho countryside. At a price less than $180,000, it seemed a steal.

But a bargain it wasn't. Ben and Amber Sessions soon realized the dream home they'd purchased for their growing family in 2009 was infested with garter snakes.

The ground was so thick with snakes surrounding the home it appeared to move at times. Throngs of snakes crawled beneath the home's siding. At night, the young couple said they would lie awake and listen to slithering inside the walls.

"It was like living in one of those horror movies," said Ben Sessions, 31.

"It was just so stressful. It felt like we were living in Satan's lair, that's the only way to really explain it."

AMBER SESSIONS, HOMEOWNER

The family would frequently eat out because their well water carried the foul smelling musk that the snakes release as a warning to predators.

Each day, before his pregnant wife and two small boys got out of bed, Sessions said he would do a "morning sweep" through the house to make sure none of the snakes had made it inside. That didn't always work. One day, he heard his wife scream from the laundry room, where she had almost stepped on a snake. He rushed into the room to find that she'd jumped onto a counter.

► The snake house, near Rexburg, Idaho, is believed to have been built on a snake den. It's now up for sale.
Inset: Garter snakes caught by the Sessions family in 2009.

"I was terrified she was going to miscarry," he said.

At the height of the infestation, Sessions said he killed 42 snakes in one day before he decided he couldn't do it anymore. He had waged war against the snakes and "they won."

He and his wife had little recourse, though, when they decided to flee the home. They had signed a document that noted the snake infestation. They said they had been assured by their real estate agent that the snakes were just a story invented by the previous owners to leave their mortgage behind. But the so-called Idaho snake house was no myth, according to the Sessionses, their neighbours, and the videos and photographs taken by them and past residents of the house.

The Sessionses filed for bankruptcy. The house was foreclosed and they left in December 2009, the day after their daughter was born and just three months after moving in.

Now owned by JP Morgan Chase, the home has stayed off the market for the past several months while Chase decides what to do with it.

EU steaming over Russia's vegetable ban

The European Union protested yesterday against Russia maintaining a broad ban on European-grown vegetables despite the identification of sprouts as the cause of a deadly E.coli outbreak.

German investigators last week said they had determined that vegetable sprouts from a farm in the north of the country were the source of the E. coli, and all indications are that the outbreak is tapering off.

The Robert Koch Institute, Germany's disease control centre, said only nine more people were reported sick yesterday compared with the day before, bringing the total number since the start of the outbreak in May to 3,244.

That figure includes 784 who have developed a serious complication that can lead to kidney failure.

Thirty-seven people have died in Germany, most recently a 90-year-old reported by Hamburg authorities, and one person died in Sweden.

► Two costumed men attend a cucumber and tomato eating contest in Germany this week.

More than 100 people have been sickened in 13 other European countries and in the U.S. and Canada, according to the World Health Organization.

Russia initially banned all vegetable imports from Germany and Spain, then extended the ban to all vegetables from the EU on June 2 over fears of the E. coli bacteria.

The ban — and that of other countries — coupled with consumers within the EU staying away from vegetables before the source was known has meant that farmers have been losing millions of euros (dollars) each week.

Will and Kate to mix glam, goodwill in Cali

► California trip follows visit to Canada, the Royal couple's first overseas engagement since their wedding Prince William and his wife, Kate Middleton, plan to combine red-carpet glamour with serious charity work during a trip to California next month, palace officials said yesterday.

The three-day visit to the Los Angeles area will be Middleton's first visit to the United States.

Private secretary Jamie Lowther-Pinkerton said the duke and duchess will attend a black-tie dinner at L.A.'s renovated Belasco Theater to introduce young British film talent to Hollywood executives on July 9.

Earlier that day, William will play at a charity polo match in Santa Barbara, with Middleton scheduled to award the trophy to the

The royal couple also plans to meet inner-city youths involved in an arts program and to meet military families in Los Angeles to learn more about how veterans are reintegrated into society. They will pack care packages bound for service personnel in Afghanistan.

The trip to California will follow a June 30-July 8 visit to Canada, where the couple's itinerary includes Canada Day in Ottawa, visiting the Northwest Territories and opening the Calgary Stampede.

Officials said Middleton, whose fashion choices have been widely praised since she took up her official duties, would not bring a special "dresser" on the trip but would rely on an administrative assistant.

A hairdresser will be part of the entourage, officials said.

Recession stalls battle vs. poverty

- ▶ Almost one in 10 Canadians are poor, says StatsCan
- ▶ Agency has not determined an official poverty line

The recession stopped progress on poverty in its tracks and took a bite out of incomes in Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta, new numbers from Statistics Canada show.

The agency says the low-income rate edged up in 2009 to 9.6 per cent — the second straight year poverty increased after more than a decade of steady declines.

"It's not very encouraging," said Rob Rainer, executive director of Canada Without Poverty.

He points out that most provincial governments now have anti-poverty strategies that are well-entrenched. He had been hoping to see some positive results despite the recession.

3.2M About 3.2 million people now live on low incomes, including 634,000 children, StatsCan said.

Instead, the percentage of people living below the low-income cutoff has climbed slowly, from 9.2 per cent in 2007, to 9.4 per cent in 2008 — the first year of the recession — and now to 9.6 per cent.

"Our overall income and wealth redistribution system is not up to the task," Rainer commented.

And children were vulnerable during the recession, with their low-income rate rising to 9.5 per cent in 2009 from 9.0 per cent a year earlier.

But the picture of the recession is one of stagnation rather than complete catastrophe. The median after-tax income for Canadian families was $63,800 in 2009 — about the same as a year earlier.

Recessions have deepened poverty in Canada for years, and exacerbated the gap between rich and poor. Many analysts feared the pattern was repeating itself. So far, that doesn't seem to be the case. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Yemen attacks on rise

► U.S. fears growing connection between al-Qaida-linked militants and Somali insurgents ► White House increases CIA officers in Yemen

Links to al-Qaida

- Yemen is the southern corner of the Arabian Peninsula near the Gulf's vast oil fields and strategic shipping lanes in the Arabian and Red seas.
- The nation is home to one of the most active al-Qaida branches, which has been linked to several nearly successful attacks on U.S. targets including the plot to bomb a Detroit-bound airliner in 2009.
- U.S.-born Muslim cleric Anwar al-Awlaki, who lives in Yemen, is on a U.S. kill-or-capture list. He is accused of inspiring U.S. attacks including the 2009 shooting at a Texas military base.

Al-Qaida-linked militants temporarily seized parts of a provincial capital in southern Yemen yesterday, the latest in a series of brazen attacks by extremists taking advantage of the turmoil in the nation.

Up to 200 militants launched a surprise dawn attack on Housta, killing one soldier and wounding three before taking control of several neighbourhoods, according to security officials.

The fighters are expanding their reach after wounded President Ali Abdullah Saleh left Yemen for Saudi Arabia and cast the country into deeper chaos.

Saleh, 70, left Yemen for treatment of wounds he suffered in a rocket attack on his compound in Yemen's capital, Sanaa.

The nation's leader of nearly 33 years, Saleh has held onto power in the face of massive protests demanding his ouster since February. Some of his top aides, military commanders, cabinet ministers and diplomats have defected to the protesters' side. This month, troops loyal to him fought rival tribesmen in Sanaa's streets with artillery.

The turmoil has created a vacuum in Yemen, the Arab world's poorest nation, threatening to cause the country to unravel.

Postal strike down for the count

► Labour minister serves notice that she will order posties back to work ► Bill could be debated Monday

Ottawa is preparing back-to-work legislation for Canada Post, setting the stage for a resumption of mail service as early as next week.

Labour Minister Lisa Raitt told the House yesterday that she was tabling notice of intention to introduce the legislation, meaning the bill could be up for a vote next week.

"The strike is now affecting the Canadian economy and it has an effect on third-party Canadians who are not part of this dispute but are the ones who are suffering," she said.

But the government says it still hopes the striking parties will reach a deal before legislation is needed.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers has also said it doesn't want to be ordered back to work, and blamed Canada Post for forcing the government's hand Tuesday night by locking out workers and suspending urban service.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

48 hours

► Under the rules of the House of Commons, the government must give 48 hours' notice before it can introduce new legislation. Since Parliament will not sit tomorrow, the bill is expected to be debated next week.

► Canada Post says the rotating strikes, which began June 3, have cost it about $100 million.

► Canada Post's lockout of striking workers was a game-changer, Labour Minister Lisa Raitt says. After a Conservative caucus meeting yesterday on Parliament Hill, she announced the government's intention to introduce back-to-work legislation.

U.S. must swallow bitter fiscal pill, Flaherty says

It's not often a Canadian politician goes to the U.S. to offer advice, but Finance Minister Jim Flaherty took that diplomatically risky chance yesterday when he told New York business elites the U.S. needs to get its fiscal house in order.

In a blunt talk to the Canadian Association of New York, Flaherty said the U.S. needs a solid plan to eliminate the deficit and reduce debt. There is no time to waste, he said, because the fate of the global economy depends on the decisions being made in Washington.

In his speech, Flaherty specifically named Paul Ryan, the Republican chairman of the House budget committee, who wants to repeal U.S. President Barack Obama's health-care law, put hard caps on domestic spending and limit Medicare.

No talks as Ottawa moves to end airline strike

Despite the threat of back-to-work legislation, Air Canada and the union representing 3,800 striking employees appeared no closer yesterday to resolving their contract dispute.

There was some dialogue between the two sides, but no formal talks are scheduled, union spokesman Darryl Bink said.

Travellers faced minor delays as striking workers staged protests at airports in Vancouver and Montreal. However, no major disruptions have been reported since customer-service agents and other staff walked off the job Tuesday.

Ottawa has warned it could table a back-to-work bill today, saying the economy is too fragile to withstand a prolonged strike.

Ken Lewenza, president of the Canadian Auto Workers, said he would like to negotiate a settlement with Air Canada before the government forces employees back to work.

"There's one thing about legislation. It doesn't improve the workplace conditions or the morale," he said. "Our members will not be happy with being legislated back to work. They'll be happy with a bargained settlement."

But the issue of employee pensions remains a major stumbling block.

Air Canada spokesman Peter Fitzpatrick said the company also wants to avoid back-to-work legislation. He said there has been "ongoing dialogue" between the parties at a Toronto hotel since the walkout began, focusing on possible resolutions to the pension issue.

A WEIGHT OFF HIS SHOULDERS

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

How you feel about your weight depends on which way your waistline is headed. To an impartial observer it's static. But when you look in the mirror, you're judging it against its past — you're either losing weight and on your way to supernatural hunkdom, like the werewolves on Twilight, or you're gaining weight and transforming into a disgusting amorphous creature from Star Trek, like William Shatner.

I had been bound for late-era Captain Kirk but, having lost 15 pounds, am now headed to Werewolf Central. Rowr.

Like most dieters, I needed some symbolism to get me going. I'm betting more people begin losing weight at round numbers like 200 or 250, then at, say, 242. Something about a big, round number makes you feel big and round.

For me, it was 190. That won't get me on The Biggest Loser, but it's all relative. For some men, it takes sinking a paddleboat at a theme park before they decide to get in shape. For some teenage girls, they see the shape of a recently eaten Triscuit poking through their ribs and christen themselves Shamu. Whale of the Schoolyard.

In my case, I noticed one morning that my belt had become redundant. I could have painted a belt on my jeans and saved the trouble of putting it on.

As for waistline direction, I had watched myself grow by 70 pounds in 12 years, which means I would have weighed 400 pounds at age 76. I don't have enough friends to carry that casket.

So I decided to try that new diet of eating less and exercising more. And given my small amount of success, I now have the hubris and vanity required to tell you how to avoid becoming a blimp. Oh, the hu-vanity!

Here's how to be a loser like me:

- Skip breakfast: It thinks it's the most important meal of the day and, frankly, I'm sick of its attitude.
- Avoid yo-yo diets: Though they provide a satisfying crunch, the string gets caught in your teeth. And it can come back on you, if you catch my drift.
- Choose empty calories, which are presumably lighter than full ones.
- Pick your poison: Two health studies were released this week. One showed that a low-carb diet will save you from cancer, the other that a high-carb diet will save you from Alzheimer's. The choice is yours!

That's what it takes, readers. Heed the advice of me, the future werewolf, or be doomed to eternal tubbiness. And remember, I haven't gotten a fat head. It's just big-boned.

Worth mentioning

TORONTO. A new report on tablet usage in Canada suggests consumers have eagerly adopted the expensive devices and sales may double in the next year.

A survey conducted by the Media Technology Monitor, a product of CBC/Radio-Canada and BBM Analytics, suggests about five per cent of the population already has a tablet. The group estimates sales will push tablet ownership to 10 per cent in 2012.

It was just a little more than a year ago that the Apple iPad first hit the market in Canada, introducing mobile tablet computers to consumers.

Now, awareness of tablets is "virtually universal," the report suggests, with more than nine in 10 Canadians having heard of the iPad or another tablet.

Consumers who bought into the early tablet hype are mostly very happy with their purchases, the survey results suggest.

About 88 per cent said they would either definitely or probably recommend a tablet to friends and family based on their experiences.

The pressure of opening up for your inspiration

► Shaun Boothe will get to live out a dream on Saturday night when he opens up for Snoop Dogg ► Show promoter chose him because of his inspiring biographies of people like Obama

BACKSTAGE PASS

AMANDA GRANT
METRO LONDON

"I don't really get nervous now until about 20 minutes before the show," says Shaun Boothe, the Toronto based hip hop artist opening for Snoop Dogg Saturday night in London. "But Snoop is a legend to me; his album is one of the first I ever picked up."

On the phone from his Toronto home, Boothe sounds excited. This weekend he will make his way back to London, where he once attended Sir Frederick Banting Secondary School.

"Yes, I was a Bronco," Boothe says.

This particular opportunity came through an old friend who contacted Boothe about the Snoop Dogg show.

"He was hoping to showcase local talent to promote the London hip hop community," Boothe says. "If he could get a great line-up to show the local talent in this venue where 3,000 people are going to show up for

Known for his unofficial biography series and songs that speak to issues of human rights, Boothe was the perfect choice for Saturday's show, his positive spin advocating for the power of hip hop as a tool to educate and engage young people.

His biographies, which tell the story of such movers and shakers as President Obama, Oprah Winfrey and James Brown in a four minutes song, have been picked up by many schools, teachers printing the lyrics and using them as a tool in the classroom.

"I am taking the initiative now to creative curriculum around the bios," Boothe says. "I am working to develop something that can be a legitimate educational tool that can teach and inspire."

Tori and Dean: Wedding planners

ASSOCIATED PRESS/CHRIS PIZZELLO

► In their new series the Hollywood couple (who eloped themselves) plan nuptials for nine other pairs

Tori Spelling says she and her children are in good health after a car crash in Los Angeles earlier this week.

"We're all doing fine," the pregnant TV star said Tuesday in a phone interview to promote Thursday's Canadian premiere of her series Tori & Dean: sTORIbook Weddings on Slice.

On Monday, Spelling revealed on her Twitter page that she got into a crash after a chase involving the paparazzi.

"Paparazzi chased me w/the kids 2school. I was trying to get away from him and had a pretty big accident," wrote Spelling, who has two children — Liam, 4, and Stella, 3 — with Toronto-born actor

"Dean and I ... love our love story and we wanted to see others find their happy endings."

TORI SPELLING

Dean McDermott.

"Took down whole wall of school. He then STILL got out to try to get pics. 10 school moms chased him away. What will it take? Someone dying for paparazzi to stop? Going to dr now to check on baby. I think it's just shock."

On Tuesday afternoon, Spelling confirmed that she is in good health, but wouldn't go into detail about the incident.

Spelling and McDermott are expecting their third child in the fall. They said they haven't found out the baby's gender because they want to it to be a surprise.

In Tori & Dean: sTORIbook Weddings, Spelling and McDermott plan nine other couples' nuptials in California in about three months.

In the first episode, they organize a pug-themed wedding for a Jewish couple who have two pug dogs. Adornments at the celebration include tuxedos and yarmulkes for the pugs to walk down the aisle with, and a "pug lounge" with dogs ready for adoption.

"I cried at every single wedding, I'm a total sap," said Spelling, 38.

"You get to know these couples on such an intimate level. Once we start working with them, from the first meeting we have, we're with them, like, every single day, all day long, getting to know them."

McDermott said doing the series made him want to run to the altar again with Spelling, with whom he eloped on the Fiji Islands in 2006.

Mental illness doesn't stop Mandel

THE CANADIAN PRESS/BILL GRAVELAND

Canadian funnyman Howie Mandel had them rolling in the aisles in Banff this week, even though the subject was really no laughing matter.

The actor, comic and game show host received the award of distinction at a ceremony at the Banff World Media Festival — an annual gathering of TV writers, producers, broadcasters and stars.

"I have mental health issues as it is and as I sit and talk to you I am medicated so the highs and the lows aren't really bothering me. I'm just floating in the middle," acknowledged Mandel, 55, in a question and answer session before a large audience.

"I am tortured but I came to this game pretty tortured," he said, then smiled and asked: "Why are you laughing at me when I said I'm tortured?"

Mandel has both obsessive compulsive disorder

(OCD) and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and has written about both in his autobiography "Here's the Deal: Don't Touch Me."

But Mandel finds it therapeutic to talk about his upbringing in the Toronto area where he says he was always a loner and had no friends.

"I'd be angry. I would be anxious and angry and then I'd go home and take a shower until my Mom would say it was dinner time. I would be in the shower for hours and I'd use every towel."

His mental health issues don't appear to have held him back in his career. He did gigs at Yuk Yuk's comedy club and spent six seasons on St. Elsewhere. He also began hosting Deal or No Deal, which was difficult for a man who doesn't want to shake hands for fear of germs.

Denise Richards has penned a memoir about her marriage to Charlie Sheen, but "it's not a tell-all," she insists to Radar Online.

"I get into the good stuff about my marriage, because people have only read the rotten stuff. So, you know, there was a beautiful love story between he and I and then it went the way it went."

Of course, the beautiful love story didn't have the happiest of endings, which Richards says she'll also address.

"I think a lot of women can relate to that, going through a divorce and custody and being a single parent, trying to work and all that stuff."

The book is due out July 27.

A summer of soft, sultry skin

► Model Joan Smalls expertly nailing summer skin care rule number 3.

► Heat, humidity, air conditioning, car exhaust fumes, and overall pollution don't exactly mix well with lip gloss, bronzer, blush and self-tanner ► Mary Schook, a facialist and make-up artist in New York, gives advice on how to avoid common summer beauty pitfalls

MAKE-UP OVER
YOUR SUNBLOCK

"The whole point is for the sunscreen to block all of the sun's rays," says Schook, a skincare guru who is the woman beauty editors and models go to for clear, glowing skin. "It should definitely be the last thing you put on your eyes and technically, it should be the last thing to go on your face so that the zinc and titanium can refract the sunlight," she explains. "But use your judgment with the face make-up and if you do wear foundation with built-in sunscreen, be sure to reapply it every two hours."

CLEAN YOUR FACE
MID-DAY IF YOU HAVE TO

"Too many women reapply their make-up throughout the day when it's honestly better to just wipe all of the make-up and oil off with a little Witch hazel and start over," she says. "The Witch hazel works because it rebalances the pH balance in your skin, which protects and prevents it from getting too oily. If you just pile the make-up on, you'll breakout later."

KEEP YOUR HAIR OUT OF YOUR FACE

Those bangs might look great in the salon, but they could potentially wreak havoc on your forehead later. "Hair products with silicone in them can irritate the face and block pores, which is why it's so important not to wear your hair in your face during summer," she explains. "So when the weather heats up, you not only need to think about changing up your skin-care regimen, but your hair care products too."

One shoe, two shoe, brown shoe?

► Lock away those squeaky, black wingtips ► Brown shoes are the fad

A trendier, more casual brown shoe might be becoming the standard in men's footwear, as men – even those wearing suits – look to replace their black wingtips.

The shift is being fuelled by changes in fashion, the economy and lifestyle, says Paul Grangaard, CEO of Allen Edmonds. Men, most of whom are not serial shoppers, put a high priority on function, he says, so if a shoe can be worn with both grey flannel trousers and jeans, that's the one they want. (And, yes, it is OK to wear brown with grey and even with black, say the experts.)

Shoe designer Alejandro Ingelmo says he wears the same brown lace-up brogues with their perforated decoration almost every day, switching up into sneakers for running and a dress-casual boot for winter and weekends. He's experimenting with lighter sand shades for men, and he'd also like to see a shift from the very square toe to a rounder shape.

It took years, though, for the collective eye to transition from black to brown, so any other changes might take some time to catch on.

"With a lot of men, probably most men, when they hear about a trend change, they get nervous," says David Lawrence, director of merchandise for the national retailer Men's Wearhouse.

"They need to see something an awful lot before they feel that they want to wear it. Most men don't want to feel like they are on the cutting edge."

Brown has probably been in their closets for years, it just wasn't the go-to colour, but it's not jarring, Lawrence says. It is an earth tone, after all.

Choosing a couch colour

► Be on trend but play it neutral when choosing a sofa ► Consider your lifestyle and the room it lives in

DESIGN CENTRE

KARL LOHNES

Q:
Hi Karl,
I have an open concept living room and dining room space. My floors are dark brown and the walls are a medium grey tone. I wanted to know what colours I should consider when buying the living room couch and chairs. Any recommendations?

-Michael, Etobicoke, Ont.

Invest in quality

A: The first thing to choose is the largest piece of furniture, which is the sofa.

It's also the largest investment so make sure you shop around and choose the best quality that you can afford.

Your sofa should last you at least five to 10 years so the style, fabric and quality should be the best you can afford.

Think lifestyle

Choose a style of sofa that suits your lifestyle and the space you are putting it in.

Will you be watching television on this sofa? If so, you will want a sofa with deep seats and soft, comfortable cushions.

If you are using your living room for cocktail entertaining, then a firmer seat cushion and well supported back will be important.

Don't be afraid to mix it up

Usually, in an open concept space you want to use a variety of furniture heights; if all the chairs and sofa are the same height it will add a boring look to the living area.

I suggest a lower back sofa and two taller-backed chairs in the living area.

Size matters

Consider the right sized sofa for the room.

Here's the rule of thumb: the sofa's length should be 2/3 of the room's width.

For instance, if the room is 10-feet wide, then a sofa 65 to 75 inches long will fit most comfortably.

Chairs that blend with the sofa's style (square-ish arm styles, deep seating, quality and construction) but do not match will work best.

This will help give the room an eclectic look instead of a matchy set that you pulled from a department store window.

Furniture advice

I suggest keeping the styles of furniture modern/retro as it is a look in contemporary furnishings that will be around for a while.

It also gives you the opportunity to add some au-

Got a decor question for Karl? Each month Karl will answer a decor question in his Design Centre column. Email your question (keep it to one specific question please) along with a digital picture, your name and hometown to home@metronews.ca. Karl regrettably cannot respond to all questions emailed.

Karl's tips

- Styles Keep overall styles clean lined and modern.
- Tones Match fabric and wood tones to what is already in the room; browns and greys which are both great neutrals.
- Accessorize Add colours to the room through art, area rugs and pillows.
- Complement Dark purple tones would be on trend and complement the deep brown and grey colours.

► A tomato and blue cheese vinaigrette gives this meat dish a unique flavour ► Recipe is speedy to make

Preparation:

- 1 Prepare the grill for direct cooking over high heat (450° to 550°F).
- 2 Lightly brush the steaks on both sides with oil and season evenly with salt and pepper. Allow the steaks to stand at room temperature for 15 to 30 minutes before grilling.
- 3 In a medium bowl whisk the shallot, vinegar, mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Slowly whisk in 2 tablespoons of oil, forming a smooth vinaigrette. Add the tomatoes and basil. Mix well.
- 4 Brush the cooking grates clean. Grill the steaks over direct high heat, with the lid closed as much as possible, until cooked to your desired doneness, 6 to 8 minutes for medium rare, turning once or twice (if flare-ups occur, move the steaks temporarily over indirect heat). Remove from the grill and let rest for 3 to 5 minutes. Add the cheese to the vinaigrette. Mix gently. Serve the steaks warm with the vinaigrette spooned over the top.

BRUINS GOALIE

TIM THOMAS AFTER THE BRUINS WON THE STANLEY CUP LAST NIGHT. ALONG WITH BRIAN LEETCH, THOMAS IS NOW THE SECOND AMERICAN-BORN PLAYER TO WIN THE CONN SMYTHE TROPHY FOR PLAYOFF MVP.

Scan code for more sports.

► The Bruins celebrate their Stanley Cup victory in Vancouver last night.

Black and gold hoist silver

► Bruins stop Canucks from winning first Stanley Cup

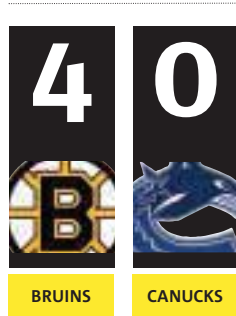

Patrice Bergeron scored two goals, one of them short-handed, while goaltender Tim Thomas made 37 stops for the shutout as the Boston Bruins defeated the Vancouver Canucks 4-0 to win the Stanley Cup in a tension-filled Game 7 last night.

Rookie Brad Marchand scored twice, once into an empty net, and had an assist as the Bruins won their sixth Stanley Cup and the first since 1972. Defenceman Dennis Seidenberg had two assists.

Bergeron's short-handed goal in the second period was the dagger in the Canucks' heart. It made the score 3-0 and subdued a sold-out crowd of 18,860 at Rogers Arena.

Sent in on a breakaway, Bergeron was hauled down by Vancouver defenceman Christian Ehrhoff. They collided with Canucks goaltender Roberto Luongo and the puck slid into the net.

Luongo raised his arms in frustration but the referee quickly signalled a goal. The call was backed up by a video review.

Vancouver outshot Boston 37-21.

At the final whistle Bruins players streamed off the bench to mob Thomas, while the Canucks watched with their heads hung.

Thomas, the stocky goaltender who plays like a linebacker, had another strong game, scrambling and diving to make saves. It was his fourth shutout of the playoffs and second against Vancouver.

He got help from a Bruins team that forced the Canucks to take long shots and quickly cleared the

It was a disappointing end to the best season in Canucks history. Vancouver had the best record in the NHL and advanced to the Stanley Cup final for the first time in 17 years.

The Bruins forced Game 6 by beating the Canucks 5-2 Monday night in Boston.

A loud, towel-waving crowd began chanting "we want the cup" even before the national anthems. Across the city thousands watched the game outdoors on big screens.

Bergeron's short-handed goal came with 2:25 left in the second. It was the fifth short-handed goal the Canucks gave up in the playoffs — and third against Boston — after allowing only two in the regular season.

The Canucks were trying to win the first Stanley Cup in franchise history. They also lost in the 1982 and 1994 final.

CONN SMYTHE TROPHY

Brilliant Thomas earns playoff MVP

Tim Thomas is bringing the Stanley Cup back to his blue-collar hometown of Flint, Mich. And he'll have the Conn Smythe Trophy in tow, too.

The 37-year-old was named playoff MVP after allowing just eight goals over his final eight games, seven of which came in the pressure-packed Stanley Cup final against the Vancouver Canucks. Thomas capped that run with another masterful performance, making 37 saves last night for his fourth shutout of the playoffs as the Bruins were crowned champions after winning Game 7 on the road 4-0 at Rogers Arena.

"This team just had so much character," Thomas told CBC after the game. "Every time we got our backs up against the wall and had to win we did. Every time. To win it on the road in Game 7 is no easy task, and they came through. That's a testament to the character on that team."

Thomas travelled a long road to the NHL that took him through Birmingham, Helsinki, Hamilton and a number of other places — making him arguably the least likely man to capture the Conn Smythe. He made just four NHL appearances before his 30th birthday and they were sandwiched between separate stints in Finland.

"He's had so many obstacles in front of him that he's overcome, it makes him a battler, it makes him the perfect goaltender for our organization," said Bruins coach Claude Julien.

► Milos Raonic, of Thornhill, Ont., takes part in the Internazionali BNL d'Italia last month. He had a 7-6 record at European clay-court events in April and May, calming down the media frenzy that had grown after his strong start to the season.

Raonic no longer in spotlight

► Media frenzy diminished by modest record in April and May

The weight of expectation on Milos Raonic has diminished after his sensational start to the 2011 tennis season, and that may be good news for the hard-serving 20-year-old.

A fourth-round showing at the Australian Open in January, followed by an ATP title in San Jose, Calif., and a thrilling loss to Andy Roddick in the Memphis final propelled Raonic to instant fame in Canada. His world ranking jumped to No. 37 from 152 over a four-week period, and within another two and a half months, he was sitting at No. 25.

But a modest 7-6 record at European clay-court events in April and May has seen the media frenzy calm to a point where his quarter-final performance last week at the pre-Wimbledon grass-court event in Germany went largely unnoticed.

Playing in his first professional grass-court event in Halle, Germany, Raonic won two rounds convincingly before falling 6-3, 6-7(6), 6-3 to Philipp Petzschner.

The crafty German led eventual champion Rafael Nadal two sets to one at Wimbledon last summer before losing 6-4, 4-6, 6-7(5), 6-2, 6-3. Petzschner then combined with Jurgen Melzer of Austria to win the doubles at Wimbledon.

"I'm very happy I'm playing so well on something, grass, that's a completely new experience for me, especially at this level," Raonic said last week. "It gives me a lot of confidence."

Doubles also figured in Raonic's preparation for next week's Wimbledon as he and Robin Haase of the Netherlands reached the Halle final, giving the Canadian four more matches of precious grass-court experience.

Following his first-round loss to unheralded German veteran Michael Berrer at the French Open, Raonic appeared jaded and spoke about being a rookie and still having a lot to learn about working out a tournament schedule that would keep him fresh and fit.

With his early exit at Roland Garros, and just the Halle tournament on grass, Raonic enters Wimbledon well rested.

BASEBALL

Mauer set to return to Twins

Joe Mauer's return to the Minnesota lineup has been set for tomorrow.

Mauer finished his minor league rehabilitation assignment by facing teammate Joe Nathan in a live batting-practice session in Florida yesterday. He hasn't played for the Twins since April 12, plagued by weakness and soreness in his legs and throwing shoulder.

Manager Ron Gardenhire said before yesterday's game against the Chicago White Sox in Minnesota that Mauer will travel today and start at catcher tomorrow against the San Diego Padres.

"It was a lot longer than I had hoped," Mauer said after his workout. "But I got my work in, and I worked with a lot of great people down here. It was nice, but obviously I want to be up there in Minnesota and be up there playing. I feel like I'm ready to get out of here."

Mauer has played in only nine games this year because of his injuries, hitting just .235 with four RBIs in the first season of a $184-million US, eight-year contract extension. He had arthroscopic knee surgery in December and said last month that his body wasn't ready when the season started.

Nathan said Mauer looked sharp.

"I threw him some pretty good breaking balls," Nathan said. "It's really just impressive to see the pitches he can take when he's down 1-2 in the count. I threw him a couple of sliders. He put a good swing on them. It's nice to see him find his swing again and start to feel good again."

Nathan pitched to Mauer and Twins prospect Miguel Sano at the team's spring training headquarters. Nathan has been on the disabled list since May 23 with soreness in his right forearm, a condition related to his recovery from Tommy John surgery last year. He struggled at the beginning of the season with a 7.63 earned-run average in 17 appearances.

Serena gets break in seeding

Defending champion Serena Williams was bumped up to No. 7 in the Wimbledon seedings — 19 places above her world ranking — yesterday, a position that will allow her to avoid playing the highest-ranked players until at least the quarter-finals.

Williams won her 13th Grand Slam title last year at the All England Club, but then stepped on broken glass, eventually leading to blood clots on her lungs, and was out of action for nearly a year. She returned to competitive tennis Tuesday at Eastbourne, coming back from a set down to beat Tsvetana Pironkova 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

She was originally seeded No. 8, but the withdrawal of second-seeded Kim Clijsters moved the rest of the field up one spot.

"Listen, I don't ask for much. I would have been happy with 25, because I'm going to be in there fighting for every point and for everything," Williams said. "It doesn't matter where I'm seeded. I'm just going to give it 200 per cent like everyone else in the draw."

Wimbledon starts Monday. The draw is scheduled for tomorrow.

On the men's side, defending champion Rafael Nadal was seeded No. 1, followed by Novak Djokovic at No. 2, Roger Federer at No. 3 and Andy Murray at No. 4 — in line with their rankings.

Federer and Nadal have combined for the past eight titles at the All England Club.

For Federer, it's the first time he has been outside the top two seedings at Wimbledon since 2003, the year he won the first of five straight titles at the grass-court Grand Slam.

Since Serena's injury, she has dropped to No. 26 in the WTA rankings. If Wimbledon organizers had seeded her according to her ranking, the four-time Wimbledon champion could have come up against a top player in the third round.

Her sister Venus, a five-time Wimbledon champion, was seeded No. 24.
